Overview of Yesterday's Activities

Yesterday, I focused on integrating the AdaMoments.io concept into the Discord server, i explored various bots for minting and posting transactional alerts in channels. Here's a concise overview:
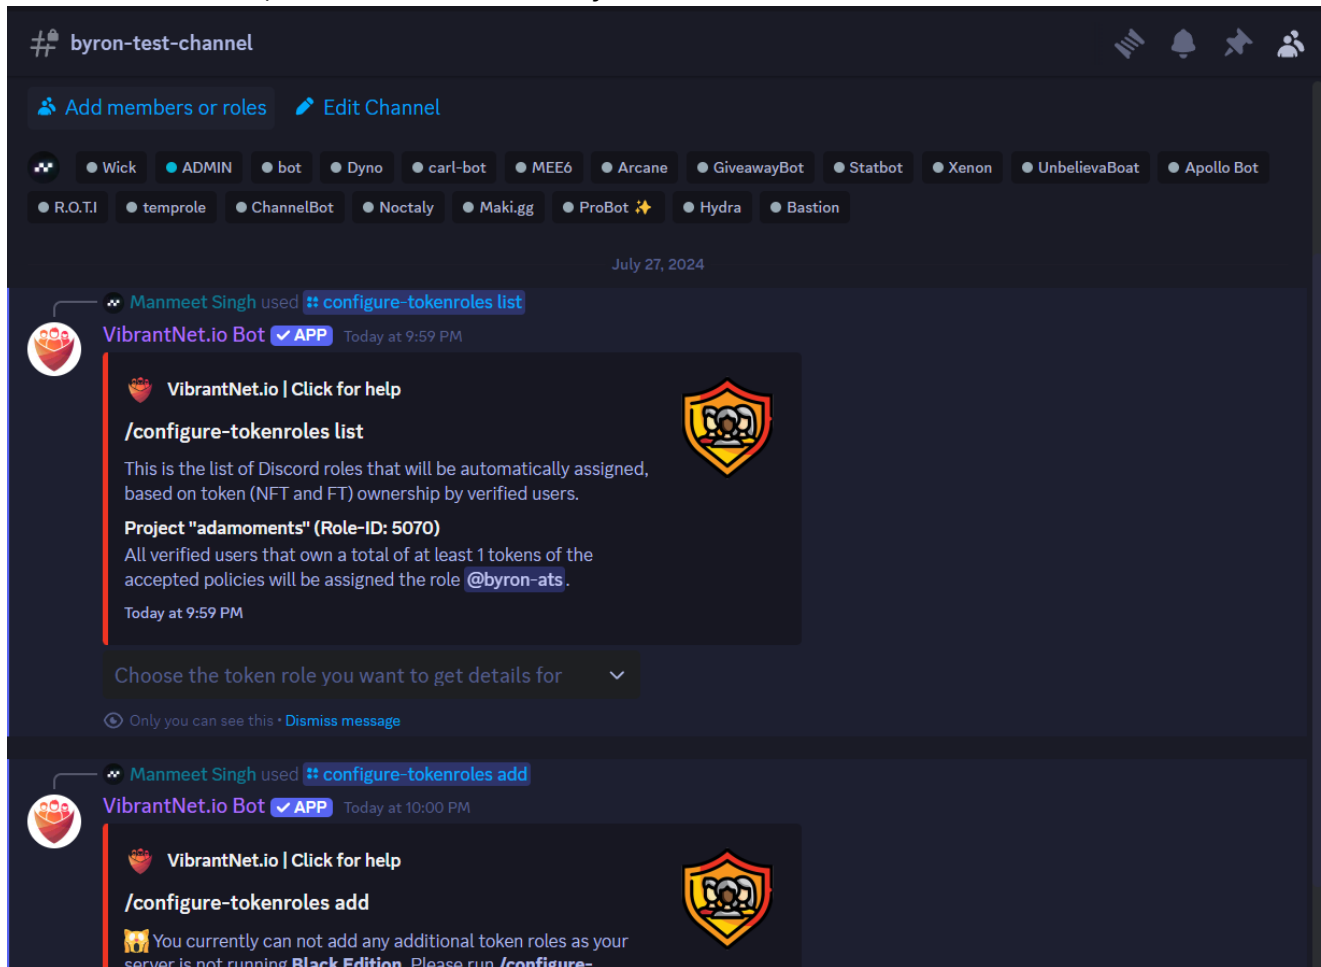

Mint Counter Channel

Using VibrantNet bot, tracks the total number of mints until now and displays in name of a voice channel

Tested Legendary Byron participant Role

This should work, when members verify their wallets with vibrantNet bot

Announcements with RYP

As other bots can also do announcements, but RYP is being a Community Integration Tool for the Cardano blockchain, so I thought It'd be relevant to include in this report.

Sales and Mint Tracking on VibrantNet.io

It is one of its paid features we can just count and display the total mints as described before

Suggestions

I have 2 suggestions regarding server experience:

1. Display earned roles like 'Early Adopter' and 'Legendary Byron participant' at the Top as a Server Stat: This will recognize and highlight the contributions of members in your discord community. Other factors include, it'll serve as a motivational factor and a testament to the community's growth.

2. Scraping and posting in channel for Mint/Track/Sales Data: (Just a suggestion)

- As almost all the bots have the tracking features in their premium tier
- Some bots were automatically banned by Wick, so I didn't touched them for obvious security reasons for the server.
- Tracking alerts can be posted after an interval.

- i found one tracking bot but unfortunately, it was on ETH blockchain

I am currently finding a tracker bot to track your collection's NFT events, so that it makes your server more engaging.
